MONDAY, JUNE 24, 1878.

The Greenback Dollar,

In the month of July, 1864, fluctuated from 100.00 cents in gold to 38.66 cents in gold.

Yesterday the Greenback Dollar was worth 99.38 Cents in Gold.

Under the promise of Resumption every paper dollar in circulation is worth almost three times as much as in 1864.

GREENBACKISM SIMPLIFIED.

"A NEW WAY TO PAY OLD [AND NEW] DEBTS."

It is never safe for an advocate of the Greenback heresies to attempt to answer questions, because the logic of their doctrines must inevitably end in a reductio ad absurdum. Our neighbor of the Commercial, however, is never deterred by fear of adding to his stultification, and an appeal to his vanity in the shape of a request for information generally finds him eager to ventilate his knowledge. His column of "Inquiries and Answers" in Saturday's paper, furnishes a most amusing and timely illustration of this weakness of his. A correspondent gravely asked him about the Greenback theory of paying the bonds with irredeemable paper, and in connection therewith put the following question:

"ing. If the Government has a legal power to pay absolutely in Treasury notes outstanding debts, why can it not issue greenbacks and pay debts as they accrue; or, in other words, the yearly expenses of Government?"

To which the editor of the Commercial promptly, and explicitly replies with the following remarkable declaration:

"In answer to the third inquiry, WE REPLY THAT THE GOVERNMENT HAS AN UNDOUBTED RIGHT TO PAY ITS YEARLY EXPENSES IN TREASURY NOTES."

That certainly makes the Greenback doctrine intelligible and reduces national finance to an exceedingly simple basis. It will be noticed that our ray money contemporary asserts the right of the Government to "pay," to "pay absolutely," the yearly expenses of the Government, in treasury notes. To pay is defined by Webster as follows:

To satisfy, as another person, for service rendered, property delivered, or the like; to discharge one's obligation to; to make due return to; to compensate; to reward; to requite.

To discharge, as a debt or obligation, by giving or doing that which is due; to make due return for; to deliver the amount or value of to the person to whom it is owing; to fulfil or perform as what is promised; to render duly.

Worcester defines the word as follows:

To discharge, as a debt; to satisfy by giving an equivalent for something received or furnished [sic]; to give, render or deliver to that which is due.

Our neighbor therefore reduces Greenbackism to the simple proposition that the Government can "pay," "discharge," "satisfy" not only all outstanding obligations, but also all current and future public expenses, by issuing paper dollars redeemable nowhere, and payable in nothing! That certainly is a very simple theory of finance and if it could be made to work would undoubtedly dispense with a great deal of trouble. No taxes or revenues of any kind would be required, because the Government could manufacture all the money it would want, for the simple cost of the printing material and the labor for running the presses, and this too, like all other expenses, could be paid in the same paper. There would no longer be any need for economy in the public service at home or abroad, and every man in the country could hold a high-salaried office, because it would cost the Government nothing to provide for any amount of public expenses.

Our neighbor has certainly struck close to the trail of Sir Tittlebat Titmouse proposition to legislate "to give everybody everything," and has suggested a method of running a government upon nothing for which he ought at once to secure a patent.

And yet, only think of the gloom in which this great financial goal is w is groping only a few years ago, when he thus thrillingly denounced as fatal what he urges as the sole panacea to-day:

[From the Bangor Democrat, Feb. 21st 1867.]

"The Republican party neither has done, nor can do, anything to relieve the country from the demoralizing and destroying [illegible] under which it is suffering from a ruinous and irredeemable paper currency. The country, to-day, is precisely in the condition of a man suffering with the delirium tremens in consequence of the excessive use of intoxicating liquors. The patient's life can only be saved by gradually or immediately, depriving him of his alcohol. The country is now in a fearful delirium in consequence of the excessive use of an irredeemable paper currency. But recently the Secretary of the Treasury undertook to withdraw from his suffering patient the pitiful sum of four millions a month. It only amounted to one two-hundred and fiftieth part of the whole amount of paper in circulation, and yet the effect on the patient was so perceptible that the Republicans could not endure his ravings, and so they ordered the withdrawal to be discontinued. They have even gone further and have directed the Secretary to give the patient one hundred millions more. They feared that the ravings of the patient, though they might save the country, would ruin their party.

On this important question there is no difference of sentiment in the Democratic party. To a man they are agreed that there must be a speedy return to a specie basis, and that our rag money must give place to the hard currency of the Constitution."

SPECIE PAYMENTS.

[From the Kennebec Journal.]

The resumption of specie payments next January remains unrepealed. This, take Congress which at the opening of the last session was largely in favor of soft money, is a result which the friends of a sound currency may rejoice over. It indicates that the strength of the greenbackers has decreased rather than increased within the last six months. Their power in Congress steadily waned as the session advanced.

And what is true of Congress is also true, we believe, of the country. In the west greenbackism is running down. In the east the organs of the party are making a good deal of noise and bluster but the basis on which it stands is unsubstantial. The failure of the inflationists in Congress to secure the repeal of the resumption act is a hard stroke for the greenbackers. Their last defeat in the House on Mr. Ewing's motion to bring before that body the bill reported some time ago to retire the national bank circulation and substitute for it treasury notes, was particularly significant of their waning power. The vote stood 106 in the affirmative to 114 in the negative. But a few months ago, this bill, if it could have been reached, would have been passed by a large majority.

With this defeat in the closing hours of Congress staring the greenbackers in the face, and with gold accumulating in the treasury while greenbacks only lack three-fourths of one per cent of par with gold, they ought to have the sagacity to see that their days are numbered. Sixty days from this date their stock in Maine will be worthless, as worthless as their paper promises to pay would be could they succeed in carrying their inflation theories into effect.

A CREDITABLE COLORED CONGRESSMAN.

[From the Boston Traveller.]

It is a biting commentary on the character of the Confederate House that the condition of its legislative business in the closing hours depended upon the ability of a colored member whom the rebels have been trying to unseat. By all the testimony it appears that Mr. Rainey, of South Carolina, was the only member of the Committee on Enrolled Bills who was equal to the task of conducting its duties. The Democratic chairman was stupidly drunk, and the other members were negligent. Mr. Rainey stuck to his duties manfully, and Speaker Randall complimented him on his efficiency in promoting the business of the closing hours.

[N. Y. Tribune Special.]

The closing scene in the House was a unique one. At about a quarter to 7 word was passed around that the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill had been enrolled. The Speaker resumed the chair. The pages waked up the seventy-five or eighty members who still remained; and in a minute or two Mr. Rainey, of the Committee on Enrolled bills, a colored member, from South Carolina, entered hurriedly at the west door with the enormous parchment roll under his arm. He was followed by Messrs. Atkins and Clymer, and as he placed the roll on the Speaker's table, the latter extended his hand and warmly congratulated him. It is only fair to Mr. Rainey to say that during the last hours of the session he was the only member of the important Committee on Enrolled bills who was in condition to do any work, and that to his industry and perseverance Congress was indebted for its ability to adjourn at the time it did. All the other members of that committee had either left the Capitol, or were incapacitated by sickness or other causes. Mr. Rainey was greeted by the House with a shout, "Rainey, you will be worth more now than you ever were before." The bill was hurried to the Senate, which had been nominally in executive session for two hours, but really had closed the doors in order to give the Senators an opportunity to sleep, and thence it was taken to the President, who signed it just four minutes before 7 o'clock.

Mr. Rainey is the member whom the Democrats, upon the report of the Committee on Elections, attempted to oust from his seat on Monday night.

FITZSIMMONS AND THE "GOOD PEOPLE OF GEORGIA."

[From the New York Times.]

When, at the request of Senator John B. Gordon and General Wade Hampton, Col. Fitzsimmons, late of the rebel army, was appointed to the United States Marshalship of Georgia, vice a gallant Union soldier, removed without cause, it was stated that there would be no more illicit distilling done in the Empire State of the South, and no more violations of the Internal Revenue laws. Col. Fitzsimmons and his friends made many promises. They told the President that the old Marshal, being "a carpet-bag Yankee," did not understand how to go about the enforcement of the laws among "the good people of Georgia;" that the presence of United States soldiers was distasteful to the aforesaid good people, and unnecessarily enraged the feelings of the gentlemen engaged in the lucrative business of making contraband whiskey. In furtherance of the universal peace and reconciliation policy, the President acceded to these views, and allowed Col. Fitzsimmons to conduct the business of his office in his own way. Unfortunately, the result has not been altogether a satisfactory one. The fearless Democratic Deputy Marshal, who was to arrest and bring in from the mountains a dozen illicit distillers has yet to be heard from, and the trade in "sand-hill fire-water" is to-day more lively than it has been since the war. Nay, more than this the manufacturers, Democrats though they be, seem to have very much less consideration for the new Deputies than they had for "the Yankee soldiers," who used to aid the old Marshal. Within the past few weeks several of Col Fitzsimmons' men have been shot down while in the discharge of their duty; and the breaking into county jails and the rescue of prisoners charged with illicit distilling has become a very common occurrence. All this is doubtless quite unpleasant to Col. Fitzsimmons, but so long as "the good people" of Georgia are satisfied, perhaps he will not complain.

HOW IS THIS FOR A REBEL CLAIM?

[From the Macon (Ga.) Telegraph and Messenger.]

We cannot but indulge the hope that when we have helped to extinguish the public debt, and time has healed the gaping wounds of the past, when reason and brotherly love shall have fully regained the ascendancy over prejudice and hate, even though it shall be in the next generation, a brave and honorable people of the same blood and lineage will see to it that the value of our property in slaves shall be returned to those from whom it was wrongfully wrested. It will do no harm to keep this question before the people, that they may preserve the records and proper memoranda of their former slaves, in the event that a returning sense of justice on the part of the Federal Government may compensate them, at least in part, for the loss of this portion of their rightful property.

MR. POTTER'S GREATEST DISCOVERY.

[From the Dubuque Times.]

Where, in all the inquisitorial investigations instituted by the Democrats in Congress, have they ever elicited a syllable of evidence that the Republicans ever paid or promised a single cent to anyone to secure the electoral votes to the Republican candidates, while hardly a witness is examined who does not tell of the base-faced attempts of the Democrats to buy electoral votes, and secure through bribery what they could not hope to secure through a Presidential election under the Constitution.

Mr. Wayne McVeagh, one of the members of the Louisiana Commission, says that all the members were disposed to pay their own expenses, but the Government thought the service was such as to make it proper that the Treasury should pay them. Finding that Congress does not take that view of it, he intimates that the members will now unite to reimburse those who advanced the money. That is a sensible way to do. The amount is comparatively small; there is no warrant or justification for drawing it from the Treasury; and if the friends of the Commissioners are disposed to help them out by private subscriptions, very well. The Commission was in no sense "official"; it was a private arrangement, and should be paid for by private means.—Boston Traveller.

Our only amendment to the above is that the President and those of his Cabinet who advised requesting these men to go to New Orleans to break up a lawful State Government, should themselves pay the expenses of the agents who acted under their instructions.

The Kennebec Journal of Saturday announced that Senator and Mrs. Blaine would reach Augusta on the afternoon train, having stopped one day at Boston to witness the graduation exercises at Harvard College, their second son, Emmons, graduating in the present class.

The Anti-Resumption party dies with Congress.—Tribune.

Maine's Democrats held their annual State Convention at Portland, on Tuesday, June 18th,—Waterloo day, and typical of the defeat that is waiting up for them,—but they did not muster in much strength, for the highest vote given in course of the proceedings was only 849. Dr. Alonzo Garcelon, of Lewiston, received the Gubernatorial nomination; and in selecting so distinguished a physician to be their nominee the nominators admit that their case requires studious watching and scientific treatment. The platform, though not openly greenbackery, is a sort of pea-green. The Convention refused to condemn prohibition. On the whole, and considering it by and large in the detail as well as in the aggregate, a mild Convention it was, milk-and-watery, and more watery than milky. Looks as if September would not see a very great Democratic vote polled in Maine.—Boston Journal of the week in Boston Traveller.

BATES COLLEGE.

Exercises of Commencement Week.

LEWISTON, June 23. The exercises of Commencement Week at Bates College opened at 2 o'clock to-day with the Baccalaureate address by President Cheney, which was made a memorial service of the late B. E. Bates whose benefactions gave existence to the college. The City Council united with the friends of the college in the service. The exercises were as follows: Invocation by Rev. J. S. Burgess; reading of the Scriptures by Rev. W. T. Chase; hymn sung by congregation; prayer by Rev. G. S. Dickerman; memorial ode by Mrs. J. A. Lowell, song by a quartette; memorial discourse; class ode, sung by class; closing prayer by Rev. J. C. Snow; Doxology and Benediction. The memorial address gave a sketch of Mr. Bates, home life, his life in Boston, his life in Lewiston, made appropriate reference to his sympathetic, generous disposition, his benefactions to and interest in the city of Lewiston and the college, his worth as a man and the loss which the city and college has met with in his death. The sermon before the Theological class was given this evening by Rev. B. F. Hayes, D. D.

FROM STRONG.

Rejoicing over a Railroad Loan.

STRONG, June 23. The town of Strong to-day voted nine thousand dollars credit in aid of the Sandy River Narrow Gauge Railroad from Farmington to Phillips, ensuring the construction of the road, and the result was received by a large delegation from Phillips, and a band, with cheers and music. A procession paraded the streets, there was music and general rejoicing, a torch light procession to-night with a transparency representing A. Buck, the principal opposer, as being knocked higher than a kite by a locomotive labelled "Sandy River Railroad." The vote stood ninety-seven to forty-six.

FROM AUGUSTA.

Commissioner Appointed.

AUGUSTA, June 23. Hon. John L. Stevens, of this city, now Minister resident at Stockholm, Sweden, has been appointed by the Governor Commissioner for Maine at the International Prison Congress to meet at Stockholm in August.

FROM LEWISTON.

Store Burglarized.

LEWISTON, June 23. About two o'clock to-day Freeman Nowell, music dealer in Auburn, discovered that his store had been entered during Saturday night. It appears that the burglars effected an entrance by cutting out a pane of glass in the rear of the basement and came up stairs Saturday. Mr. Newell drew from the bank over $900 which he left in his desk together with two valuable gold watches. This property was all taken as well as a quantity of string and other musical goods. No clue to the thief.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

WASHINGTON.

The Potter Sub-Committee.

WASHINGTON, June 23.

The Sub-Committee of the Potter Committee consisting of Messrs. Stenger, Blackburn and Reed, start for Louisiana Tuesday.

Postal Changes.

Among the recent changes are the following. Established East Belmont, Waldo County Me., Albert F. Elms, postmaster; Tyler's Corner, Lincoln County, Me., George Eugley, postmaster. Appointed Chas F. Chamberlain, Bristol, Lincoln County, Me., G. F. Morse, Centre Montville, Waldo County, Me. Discontinued Burton Washington County, Me.

Restored to Duty.

By direction of the President the suspension of Casilear and Sullivan, of the Bureau of Engraving, made May 1st, on request of Glover, was withdrawn and they were restored to duty.

These Commission Expenses.

WASHINGTON, June 23. Ex-Governor John C. Brown, before leaving Washington, responded to a letter of Secretary Sherman returning the draft forwarded to the Department in payment of his (Brown's) share of the Louisiana Commission expenses, again enclosing the draft, which he says he feels constrained to do from a sense of duty to himself, and, to the parties liable for the amount expended. The belief is expressed that the Secretary will retain the check and await further action concerning the payment of the expenses of the committee.

THE INDIANS.

The Panic in Wisconsin.

ST. PAUL, June 22. The best-informed persons here were utterly incredulous as to the serious Indian trouble in Wisconsin from the first, and the opinion is confirmed by the report of the Pioneer Press representative who went to Gradburg and telegraphed, after a full investigation of the matter, that there is a panic. A great many houses in the country are being deserted, and the towns of St. Croix Falls, North Branch and Rush City are filled with fugitives; but no ground can be discovered for the alarm. No hostile Indians can be found or heard of. The report can be traced only to the personal quarrels of Indians with the whites, in which the former have suffered. One Indian was killed by his companion for spreading rumors of trouble. The Indians deprecate the panic fearing punishment. It is evidently a groundless panic on a large scale. General Forsythe, of Sheridan's staff, went to Rush City, Friday night and he makes light of the whole matter.

Movements of Hostiles.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 23. A Palisade despatch says that twenty-five well armed Indians crossed the railroad track near Agents this forenoon, going north. Constant reports come in from the line of the Eureka and Palisade Railroad of small parties of Indians passing north, nearly all of whom are armed.

A Silver City despatch says the Umatilla Indians have all left their reservation. The Blue mountains are full of them.

ACKLEN—ROSSER.

A Duel in Prospect.

WASHINGTON, June 23. A statement by the friends of Congressman Acklin in the editor of the Washington Post contradicts the recent statement, of a sensational and unwarranted character "as to his behavior as a lady" and says that his version of the affair is entirely corroborated by the lady and that there is but one issue in the premises and that is of a personal and private character between Acklin and Gen. Rosser, who have both left the city for their respective homes to arrange their affairs for such a determination of the result as accords with their views of the responsibility of men to one another.

The Scandal

of distorted and exaggerated publicity it is added has had the effect of hastening, perhaps, an event which would have taken place under any circumstances and which should not be permitted to be clouded with dishonor. The Post says editorially that Acklin hurried to Louisiana to arrange his affairs and as soon as he gets there his friend, a well known duelist, will at once notify General Rosser to name some gentleman to represent him with a view to a settlement according to the strict code.

The lady Mr. Acklin admits to have seriously compromised and professes a willingness to make her the only reparation in his power.

WASHINGTON, June 23. The Potter Committee met this forenoon. Butler stated that he would absent himself from the committee in case Matthews declined to testify before it, having seen it published that the reason for Matthews non appearance was the fear of being insulted by him. Capt. Jenks then resumed the stand and was cross-examined by McMahon more particularly on the existence of the alleged Sherman letter, conversation with Pitkin on the 6th of January, and what occurred to impress the date of the conversation so distinctly on his memory. Witness did not remember that there was anything special occurred; he merely reached at the date by accident; he was positive he never heard of the Sherman letter until it was mentioned to him by Pitkin. After some very sharp questions by McMahon, witness said he thought it was the 6th of January that the conversation took place, but would not say positively, but was confident it was about that time.

Mrs. Jenks' Visit to Washington—Jenks' Letters to Anderson.

Considerable time was consumed in questions and answers with reference to the visit of Mrs. Jenks to Washington, during which witness stated that he had paid his wife's expenses to Washington. He came at the instance of Kellogg; did not know that she was here in the interest of Packard. Anderson, it was understood, had certain documents which Kellogg desired to get, and Mrs. Jenks was here for that purpose, having been a recipient of a letter from Kellogg to come on. He could not give the contents of the letter; thought his wife was in Washington two or three weeks; could not say positively.

After further unimportant testimony witness was examined by Butler in relation to letters written by Anderson to witness, in which he was requested to obtain "the letter," "the document," etc., meaning the so called Sherman letter, and assuring him if he could do so, his fortune could be made. Witness disclaimed knowing anything about what letter or document Anderson referred to.

Butler—Now do you say that the document by securing which, you could make your fortune, that you did not have some curiosity as to what the document was?

Ans.—I had written Anderson for a description of the document, but had no idea at this time what the document was, and the first I knew of it was from conversation with Pitkin.

Butler said: It was a well known fact that women were curious, and inquired if his wife never asked what the document that was going to make their fortune, contained.

Witness replied that she may have asked, but he did not remember it.

Q—If she did ask you, what did you reply?

A—That I knew nothing about it.

Q—Then she didn't know any more about it than you did.

A—Not to my knowledge.

Mrs. Jenks on the Stand—The Sherman Letter.

Butler continued to closely question Jenks regarding his knowledge of the Sherman letter, and his wife's connection therewith, the substance of his answers being that he knew nothing of the Sherman letter either personally or through his wife. Mrs. Jenks was next placed on the stand and sworn.

She testified that Anderson had written her from Philadelphia in relation to the document which he termed the "Sherman letter." She knew nothing of the document which Anderson called the Sherman letter until last January. He (Anderson) did not know that the witness knew anything about the letter. She did not think anything about, the letter before January last. She had seen the document in question.

Q.—Did you ever have that document?

Ans.—I don't think I have ever had the original document to which there is so much importance attached. Continuing, she testified that she might have had the document in her hands, about two months and a half; was at the time she had it in her hand on the street; no one gave it to her; nobody showed it to her; she asked no permission to take it.

Witness Makes a Statement.

Gen. Butler then questioned witness closely as to whom she got it from, or how she came in possession of it. She finally said that she picked it up from a table and there might have been persons in the room. She did look around, and she then stated that, after she picked it up, she went into the street with it, and kept it in her possession but about two and one-half months.

Q.—Where was that room from the table in which you picked up the document?

A.—It was in parlor "P." of the St. Charles Hotel. She said she presented the document to Dan Weber at the entrance of the St. Charles Hotel. It was about noon. Weber had left witness after the conversation at the corner of St. Charles and Common streets. Witness at this point said she desired to make a statement before answering further questions and Butler said she might proceed.

The statement was in substance that she wished in the presence of this august committee, and for the benefit of the country at large, to exonerate Secretary Sherman and Anderson from any connection whatever with this document known as the Weber guarantee, and she did not think it was necessary for her to make any further explanation with reference thereto.

Butler explained that it was necessary to give the committee the information desired without further hesitancy.

Witness proceeded to testify stating that after giving a letter to Weber he (Weber) remarked that Anderson was not satisfied with his treatment, but wished to have a written guarantee. In reply to the question as to the contents of the letter handed by her to Weber, witness repeated word for word the contents of the Sherman letter as heretofore published.

Butler submitted a letter written to Mrs. Weber, bearing the signature of Agnes Jenks, which she recognized as a letter written to Mrs. Weber by herself, requesting the former to look well for the document, as it would be of much benefit to her husband and Mr. Anderson, and in the event of her producing the document, she (Mrs. Jenks) would see that she was well paid for her trouble.

Further Information, about the Sherman Letter.

Witness stated that she never knew any other letter addressed to Anderson and Weber which contained a guarantee, she had never seen the document since she gave it to Dan Weber. Her husband told her that Pitkin mentioned the existence of the Sherman letter to him on the sixth of January last. She came to Washington on her own account and notified Kellogg of her intention of coming before she left New Orleans.

She came here on business of her own, and business concerning the nation at large. Witness admitted having written Anderson inquiring if, he desired "the S" letter.

After further interrogation regarding the Sherman letter, witness asked Butler what he wanted with Sherman, whereupon Butler replied: "I will tell you. If that letter can be found, we can settle definitely whether Sherman wrote it."

Butler asked her: Do you know, or have you ever known, where this letter was, or whether it is not in existence after you gave it to Weber?

Ans.—I do not.

Q.—Do you know of any other letter purporting to be signed by John Sherman excepting the one you handed to Weber?

A.—Oh, no; there was no other.

Q.—Have you since the 20th of November, ever written a letter of the same purport of the Sherman letter and signed John Sherman's name to it?

After considerable evasion and questions such as—"Why should I do so?" What was the occasion for doing so, etc., witness said she had never done any such thing.

The committee then at 1.45 took a recess for half an hour. During the answers of witness with reference to the persons present in the parlor "P" of the St. Charles Hotel, at the time she picked up the letter bearing the signature of John Sherman, she stated that some of the visiting statesmen were present, including Garfield and Hale, but she was quite positive that Sherman was not there at the time.

The Anderson Guaranty.

The examination by Butler of Mrs. Jenks was exceedingly close, resulting in her stating that Weber stated that Anderson wanted a guaranty from John Sherman, and that she took a letter from Weber to the St. Charles Hotel, where the visiting statesmen were, asking for such guaranty; that while taking the letter there she inadvertently bit off the envelope; that when she arrived in the reception room she thought the bitten envelope was not very presentable and then the idea struck her that she would put it in the room with the other statements; that she never knew Sherman [illegible] the letter of Weber; that the statesmen would not be guilty of a breach of etiquette in looking over a lady's shoulder while writing in their presence; that she gave a response to Weber and that the letter was addressed to both Weber and Anderson.

She stated that the letter she gave Weber was signed John Sherman. She further stated that this was the document Anderson was so anxious about, but as she did not think it of so great importance she had an idea, there might have been some other letter; but this was the one which had been printed and, was the one to which so much importance was attached.

After further long examination, Butler elicited from Mrs. Jenks that there was no other letter signed John Sherman that she knew of. She contending that there could be none other as no further "guarantys" were needed.

Secretary Sherman and the Anderson-Weber Agreement.

A mere report of the examination of Mrs. Jenks before the Potter Committee can give but a faint idea of the scene in which she played the leading roll and in which Messrs. Butler and McMahon played the subordinate parts. Mrs. Jenks said: "... distinctly and entirely exculpate Mr. Secretary Sherman from any complicity, direct or indirect, in the Anderson-Weber agreement." Adjourned till Monday.

It is stated that there is a great scramble among the brokers, lobbyists and agents for the money appropriated to pay the claims against the Navy Department. The Secretary of the Navy has not yet determined how this is to be paid out, and the matter will be referred to the Attorney General for his decision.

THE BERLIN CONGRESS.

The Balkan Passes—The Coming Discussion.

BERLIN, June 23. The Congress at Monday's sitting will discuss the details of the arrangement made Saturday, permitting the Turks to garrison the Balkan Passes. Later despatches declare this concession on the part of Russia is unquestionably conditional upon the establishment of autonomy of Roumelia and the evacuation of the interior by the Turkish troops. The interior organization of the Province will be next discussed. The conditions laid down by Russia are absolute. It is understood that the negotiations relative to the guarantee for the autonomy of the Province will give rise to an animated debate. The question of the evacuation of the fortress will also arise in connection with the organization of Roumelia.

The Russian Privy Councillor Schlaeg arrived in Berlin from St. Petersburg on Saturday and immediately had an interview with Count Schouvaloff and Prince Gortschakoff. Prince Gortschakoff is confined to his bed.

Charge of Cruelty Against a Contractor.

NEW YORK, June 23. Two men escaped from Brazil, where they went on board the steamer City of Richmond to work for Collins, the railroad contractor. According to their story they were shot at and afterwards imprisoned for asking for food. They escaped from prison, and were given a passage to Charleston, by the captain of a brig and arrived there yesterday. A number of men had left for Bolivia, but half of them starved to death. Consul Cone at Para has reported the facts to Washington. As the escaped men were leaving, a great number of men who went from Philadelphia begged them to make known the cruelties and brutalities they were suffering at the hands of Collins.

MISS CHARLOTTE THOMPSON played to a good house in Augusta Saturday evening, and returning here on the Pullman train, spent the Sabbath at the Bangor House. She goes to Calais this morning with her company for an engagement during this week, and we can assure our Calais friends that Miss Thompson's ability as an actress is worthy of the most liberal support. The visits of an artist of her rank to localities so far from the "great cities" are rare, and should be all the more appreciated.

Hon. Llewellyn Powers arrived in this city from Washington Friday evening and left on the train Saturday evening to connect with private conveyance across the country to Houlton. Mr. Powers is looking finely after the work of the long session, in which he has displayed abilities of a high order, as is fully recognized by his constituents. The interests of the District were never more promptly and efficiently cared for, while his public action has been uniformly successful and distinguished for a first term in Congress.

THE RAIN. Yesterday there was one of the heaviest rain storms that has been known in this vicinity for a long time. Rain began falling at about two o'clock yesterday morning, and continued through the day and evening. At times it just poured, and one of our old citizens remarked that "he never saw it rain harder in his life." During some of the showers the water in the gutters was almost equal to small brooks, and the water in Kenduskeag stream was about the color of mud. This rain must necessarily raise the water in all the streams and the lumbermen will be enabled to get all of their logs.

THROWING DOWN THE GRASS. As the boys have been going into Mr. Burleigh Pease's field after strawberries and treading down the grass, he entered a complaint at the City Marshal's office, and Saturday morning two of the officers were sent out to see if they could make any arrests. On reaching the field the officers went into the woods, and Mr. Pease went on the opposite side of the field and began to chase the boys. They scattered in all directions, and one of them ran into the officers and was captured. After getting his name and the names of some of the other boys they let him go again.

TEMPERANCE. The Reformers' public meeting yesterday was well attended, considering the copious showers. The following was the programme: Singing; reading the Scriptures by Mrs. Pickard; prayer by Chaplain Boyce; remarks by Messrs. Stevens, Randall and McIntyre, of the Club, and by Mrs. Crossman and Mrs. Pickard of the Crusade. Mr. Thurston of Belfast, [illegible] also offered appropriate remarks. Miss Helen A. Osgood charmingly rendered the sacred song, "Singing for Jesus," the duets, "Waking and Watching," by Misses Osgood and Hooper, and "Cast thy burden on the Lord" by Messrs. Hodges and Barnaby, were also finely executed.

FARMERS' CLUB. The report of the meeting of the Penobscot County Farmers' Club will be found on the first page. This was the last meeting to be held before the commencement of the next winter's campaign. These were one of the most successful and profitable series of meetings ever held by this Club, and the society is largely indebted for its success to its energetic and accomplished presiding officer, W. E. Gibbs, Esq., and also to the Vice President and other officers who have worked harmoniously together for the past year. None but those who have regularly attended these meetings can appreciate the benefits that have been derived from them by the whole community. The farmer who has attended these meetings has never failed of getting an idea, fact, or sentiment, which has accompanied him to his next day's work, giving him something to think of beside the mere mechanical drudgery of his every day occupation. By hearing papers read, giving carefully conducted experiments, and studying them, he has been enabled to apply their principles to his practice. At this meeting all were in unusual good spirits, and seemed to feel that they had reason to render praise and thanksgiving to Him who rules the universe for one of the most encouraging, joyous, inspiring and promising springs known for years.

A NARROW ESCAPE. Saturday morning Mr. J. P. B. Whedden had a very narrow escape from a serious accident out at the Trotting Park. He had a horse that had only been on the track a few times and when he started him down the stretch, the bit broke and he lost all control over the animal. The horse commenced running at a fearful gait, and Mr. W. started to get on his back, but when he found that the bit had broken instead of one of the reins, he rolled out of the sulky and let the horse go. After rolling about in the dust for a time he picked himself up, and with the exception of being pretty well shaken up, he was uninjured. The horse ran around the track three times before he was captured. The sulky was not damaged at all.

THE CONCERT. The Commencement concert next Wednesday evening under the auspices of the Senior class at the State College, will undoubtedly be one of the most brilliant concerts ever given in this city. The list of artists embraces Miss Annie Louise Cary, who has won such golden opinions all over this country and in Europe, and her rich contralto voice will be a magnificent treat in itself. Heretofore these concerts have been held in Orono, but the present class, realizing the wishes of our citizens, have decided to break over the old rule and will hold their concert in Norombega Hall. As the class have deviated from the usual course in coming here and giving their concert within easy access of our citizens, we trust that this magnificent array of talent will be greeted with a large audience. The tickets are on sale at Bughbee's, and some choice seats still remain unsold.

THE CELEBRATION. Saturday afternoon a number of the citizens met at the Council Room to hear the report of the finance committee on the Fourth of July celebration. The meeting was called to order by His Honor Mayor Hamlin, and the committee reported that up to that time they had received $408.50. Many of those present thought that quite a sum could be added to this amount during the next few days. The chairman of the committee of arrangements said that they had talked the matter over, and thought that they could arrange a good celebration for $1000. It was then voted to proceed and make the necessary arrangements. The finance committee will meet the City Government this afternoon at four o'clock to see what amount of money they will appropriate. At eight o'clock this evening there will be a meeting in the Council Room, and all young men who are interested in having a good celebration, are invited to attend.

The Town Hall at Orono was neatly decorated with bunting and flags, and on either side of the stage were baskets, filled with elegant flowers, and directly over the stage the word "Advance." The hall was well filled and at about eight o'clock the first speaker was announced by President Allen. The following was the

We have not the space to speak of each declamation but on the whole they were all well delivered. Perhaps it is no more than just to make mention of No's 1, 3, and 11, as being among the best. The speakers were favored with many floral offerings. The piano duets, also the vocal selection by Miss Farrington, and the selections by Andrews Orchestra were excellent and received warm applause. Rev. Mr. Woodbridge, Mr. S. H. Powell and Col. Atwell, the committee to award the prize, will render their decision next Wednesday.

Last evening President Allen delivered an able and very interesting Baccalaureate address, an abstract of which is given below:

He that findeth his life shall lose it, and he that loseth his life for My sake shall find it.—Math. 10:39.

To the disciples elated by the grandeur of the Saviour's mission involved in the confession, "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the Living God," came the sad announcement of the Master's death, and the declaration that without cross-bearing and self-denial no one could be his disciple; and even life itself must be given up for His sake.

That life is to be sacrificed for higher good, is symbolized in all the processes of nature. Life and death follow each other in unending succession, lower organization undertaking by decay higher and still higher ranks in the scale of being. Lichens spread over desolate rocks their first growth. These lower forms of vegetable life dying, nourish higher types of existence. The delicately fringed mosses, ferns with expanding fronds, herb, yielding seed, and fruit-bearing shrubs in turn, thrive on the death of their predecessors; till the mighty monarchs of the forest send their roots abroad and pierce the mould. Man reaps the field and gathers his harvests from the bosom of death. "Except a corn of wheat fall into the ground and die, it abideth alone, but if it die, it bringeth forth much fruit"; so in the animal kingdom the great chain of being stretches upward, till it reaches the domain of humanity; nor does the principle of sacrifice stop here. "Not for ourselves" is written on leaf and flower, on bird and beast. "Not for ourselves" is engraved on man's spiritual nature.

The principle of sacrifice is not only exhibited when the weak give away to the strong; but there is a sublime manifestation when the noblest give up their lives for the good of the many. Philanthropists and patriots of all ages have left imperishable names; while selfish, craven recreants, in prolonging a few years of miserable earthly existence, have lost all title to remembrance. Precious to Americans is the memory of her heroes from the first great martyr Warren, whose banner [illegible] to our country," to the murdered Lincoln breathing out his motto, "with malice toward none and charity for all."

By all these lessons of nature and history, we learn the value of sacrifice, the grandeur of dying that we may live, we are to die to indulgence and mere enjoyment, that we may live to duty, sacrificing the lower principles of our nature to reason and conscience, and to holy aspirations. As childhood gives place to manhood, frivolous pursuits must give place to useful toil.

We are to take into the account the whole of our being. Earthly interests are always to be held in subordination to our spiritual good, the higher life can only be secured by a surrender of ourselves to Him, Whose we are, and Whom we serve, as our Great High Priest by death prepared the way of life for all his followers, so we must die to all and self, and live a new life of holiness and good. Without a death there can be no new birth.

He that keeps his old native life shall lose the life of adoption. As it behooved Christ to die that repentance and remission of sins might be preached in His name, it behooves us to die to earthly interests that we may live to our Redeemer. Freely, as Christ gave his life a ransom for many must we make the consecration. But it is only through power vouchsafed to those who in faith receive the grace that any become sons of God. By an irrevocable law of our being spiritual power cannot be poured irresistibly into our hearts; any more than knowledge can be poured irresistibly into our intellects. We study to be wise, little by little, we catch glimpses of knowledge, and improve the opportunities for instruction. So we must feel after the hidings of power that works in us both to will and to do.

We need not mistake one kind of exercise for another; bodily vigor is not mental power, and intellectual acuteness will not produce tender sensibilities. Uprightness in our intercourse with others is a noble trait, it is worth more than it costs, and there can be no Christian character without it; but honesty in business is not faith in God. The spirit life, that flows out in penitence, faith, pardon and communion with Christ, is not evolved from outward correctness of deportment and compliance with the rules of social morality.

Philosophers of old sought to transmute the base metals into gold, modern scientists have labored to produce life in the laboratory of the chemists, so moralists with like success may strive by the balancing of conflicting interests in the seething laboratory of human passions to create the hidden life of God.

What grandeur there is in the sacrifice of all things, life itself in the cause of Christ, we may not be called to join the noble army of the martyrs, and resist unto blood, striving against sin; but we shall find sufficient tests of our loyalty to our King. There may be as much sacrifice in living for Christ as in dying for his cause. All is to be done for His sake and he that loses his earthly life may find an eternal life.

At the close of the above, President Allen addressed a few feeling remarks to the members of the graduating class. He expressed the interest that the faculty have felt in their advancement, and closed with words of good advice for their future welfare. This evening at half-past seven there will be an address by Rev. Cyrus Hamlin, D. D., of this city. The exercises for the remainder of the week are as follows:

Tuesday,—2 P. M. Review, Drill and Dress Parade of the Coburn Cadets; 8 P. M. President's Reception.

Wednesday,—10:30 A. M. Commencement Exercises; 8 P. M. Concert by Annie Louise Cary, Miss Ella C. Lewis and the Mendelssohn Club of Boston, at Norombega Hall, Bangor.

SUPREME JUDICIAL COURT.

JUNE (LAW) TERM, 1878.

HON. JOHN APPLETON, Chief Justice.

HON. CHARLES DANFORTH, "
HON. ARTEMAS LIBBEY, "
HON. WM. G. BARROWS, "
JAMES H. BURGESS, Clerk.
J. D. PULSIFER, Reporter.

We desire to state that we arrange, for official and accurate reports of all court proceedings, with the intention that the statement of cases shall be as judicially impartial as the action of the court. In our report of Friday's proceedings in the case of Buck vs. Merchants Marine Insurance Co., a synopsis furnished by the counsel of one side was thoughtlessly inserted, which has occasioned the subject of complaint to us by the opposing counsel, and we therefore announce that hereafter no modification of any court report will be made at the suggestion of counsel in any case, except where both sides, shall unite in a request for the correction of error. We publish below the official report prepared by Mr. Pulsifer, of the case referred to, in which at the trial the presiding judge ordered a non-suit and which was brought up to the Full Court on exceptions by plaintiff.

HANCOCK CASE.

No. 77. John A. Buck vs. Merchants Mutual Marine Insurance Co. of Bangor.

Action to recover dividend on the consolidated scrip of said company, No. 297 for $200; 100 per cent. dividend; $400.

Jan. 18th, 1872, the company voted to recommend to the trustees to divide $177,400 to holders of consolidated scrip, it being 100 per cent. They also adopted a form of receipt for each member to sign on receipt of the amount.

On this recommendation $177,400 was paid and receipted for, the plaintiff's claim of $400 not being paid and payment refused on the ground that the company have an equitable and they think a legal, set-off for money over paid him on a former claim of his.

The defendants say, true we paid out $177,300 without sufficient authority and decline to pay this $400, availing ourselves of this technical want of authority in support of our rightful claim in set-off.

Barker, Vose & Barker for plaintiff.
C. P. Stetson for defendants.

PENOBSCOT CASES.

Saturday June 22.

No. 143.—Albert W. Paine, Insurance Commissioner, complainant, vs. Maine Mutual Marine Insurance Co. Appeal by Andre Cushing & Co., of St. John, N. B., from the decision of receivers upon claims filed in insolvency against respondent company for losses on policies, only a part of which was allowed by the receivers, and objection having been filed in accordance with the provisions of the statute, C. 148 of acts of 1873, Sec. 16.

After the entry of the appeal, an auditor was appointed to adjust the claims and report, according to Revised Statutes, chapter 82, sec. 62.

The auditor made his report and stated the accounts. The receivers put in no evidence but rely upon their objections that this is not a case for an auditor, and if it is, that the auditor has received as vouchers illegal documents.

The complainant contends that the vouchers are legal; that this is a proper case for an auditor and that an auditor's report was prima facie evidence even if he had received and considered vouchers not strictly legal.

Paine. Stetson.

No. 184.—William D. Lewis vs. Richard M. Mills. Trespass against the defendant for causing the illegal arrest of the plaintiff under color of legal process. This verdict was for plaintiff for $410.60. The defendant moves to set aside the verdict and files exceptions.

Defendant—True. I caused the arrest of the plaintiff. He was owing the mill of which I was agent, an honest debt and wrote me a letter stating that he was about to leave the State and go West and proposed left stock for my claim, and I made oath that I had reason to believe and did believe that he was about to depart and reside beyond the limits of the State.

Plaintiff—I did not say that I was going to leave the State. I did say I was going West or to Chicago, but it was with no intention to reside there.

Defendant—I think you meant to make me think so, and I did think so.

Mr. McCrillis argued to the court that the phrase "go west" "going west" "gone west" means going with the intention to reside there. We never spoke of immigrating to the west. South and west in such connections means the southern and western States. The fair interpretation of the language of the letter was that Lewis was going west to reside. And even if the interpretation of the letter was wrong it was not an unreasonable or careless one and that he was not therefore liable in trespass.

Mr. L. Barker argued against the motion and exception; that the letter was conveniently lost; that the fair interpretation of the phrase "going west," as he used it, did not mean to reside there afterwards, and if he did, the information given to the defendant upon his arrival in Bangor that there was no intention of residing West, ought to have prevented him from proceeding further.

The defendant replied that what was written was written, and but little weight should be given to explanations made afterwards to avoid arrest or procure release.

L. Barker. W. H. McCrillis.

SUICIDE AT HAMPDEN.

A Young Man is Thrown From His Carriage and Receives Injuries which Affects His Reason and He Commits Suicide.

Friday evening as Mr. Frank L. Martin of Hampden, was returning home from Orono, he was thrown from his carriage while turning the corner of the road leading from Hampden to Dixmont, and was badly bruised. It is supposed that he must have injured his spine, as he appeared to have lost his reason, when he reached his home at about two o'clock Saturday morning.

After breakfast Saturday, he complained of his injuries and his mother advised him to go to his room, which is in the second story of the house, and lie down. At about eleven o'clock on going to his room, he was found hanging by his neck to one of the rafters dead. He had taken a strap which he had worn about his waist and standing on the bed placed it over one of the rafters and then buckled it around his neck. After accomplishing this he pushed the bed aside and deliberately strangled himself.

The deceased was about twenty-two years old and son of Mr. Reme Martin of Hampden. He was highly respected in the neighborhood and his death has cast a feeling of gloom over the whole community.

LIVER IS KING.

The Liver is the imperial organ of the whole human system, as it controls the life, health and happiness of man. When it is disturbed in its proper action, all kinds of ailments are the natural result. The digestion of food, the movements of the heart and blood, the action of the brain and nervous system, are all immediately connected with the workings of the Liver. It has been successfully proved that Green's August Flower is unequalled in curing all persons afflicted with Dyspepsia or Liver Complaint, and all the numerous symptoms that result from an unhealthy condition of the Liver and Stomach. VEGETINE

FOR

EPILEPSY.

BARABOO, May 18, 1877.

H. R. STEVENS:—

Dear Sir,—My husband has had Epilepsy for the past fifteen years. The past winter his blood seemed to be in a bad condition, and seeing the good results from the use of Vegetine in others, felt anxious to try it. He has taken some six bottles, and the result has been, that he has had only ten fits in three months past; whereas, he was accustomed to having as many in two days at his worst, an effect that he did not expect. Am very anxious to have him continue the use for some longer; and write you to ask you what terms, or what reduction you would make and send me one dozen bottles. Very respectfully,

MRS. A. C. COLE,

Baraboo, Sauk Co., Wis.

Vegetine thoroughly eradicates every kind of humor, and restores the entire system to a healthy condition.

VEGETINE.

ST. VINCENT SCHOOL, Troy, N. Y., Oct. 3, 1871.

DR. STEVENS:—

Dear Sir,—We are truly grateful for your generous donation of Vegetine received last evening. A lady has been using it here, with much benefit to herself, who, for years, has been pronounced "broken down," "worn out," &c. Frequently she was disturbed in her sleep by a violent nervous twitching of a foot, or the face, or the whole body. By taking this Vegetine, she is enabled to sleep quiet, and her general health seems much improved, though she has a complication of chronic diseases to contend with. May God bless you for your charity to the orphans.

Respectfully and gratefully,

SISTERS OF CHARITY.

HARASSING DREAMS.—An unnatural excitement of the brain and nervous system is the direct cause of sleeplessness, as also of harassing nocturnal dreams. Vegetine has a peculiarly soothing effect in all such cases, when taken just before going to bed.
